

Dragon of Death

The Prince of Death Cycle — Book Two

by Pierre H. Vachon

(Edited by Samuel J. Wood in 2026)

The avatar of Shades is on the loose in the Middle Azure Coast, trying to bring the avatar of Domorash into the world. Can you stand up against two dark and evil Goddesses at once? Time to fight Gods indeed!

Notes:

1. This scenario is quite large; it includes 11 land levels, 8 indoor levels (castles, inns, shops, taverns, ruins, etc.), including one “3D-dungeon” level, and 1 underground level. There is a lot of fun stuff to do here, in addition to the main story.
2. This scenario is Book Two of a trilogy (“The Prince of Death Cycle”); the previously released Book One is titled “Dead of Night” and Book Three is titled “Realm of Death”. (Unfortunately, Realm of Death was never released. - ed)
3. Note that you need to carry food and waterskins (which are required, lest you suffer from dehydration and/or hunger). To refill your waterskins, simply stand over a well and click on the rogue/encounter button, then select the action of taking water.

Alternately, you may buy waterskins in many of the stores you will find.

4. Be warned that some of the battles in DoD are very (if not extremely) tough! You'll need to use all your skills, knowledge and forethought to overcome many of the challenges in the scenario.

5. To help you start, follow this clue: go to the Reveling Mariner tavern & inn to meet interesting folks or gather information (in fact, enter all the taverns and even temples that you find). Thereafter, go to the City/Justice Halls of Orlindor for interesting jobs, many of which will put you on the right path. In any event, always make sure you are in search mode or that you have a detect secret spell active: these help a lot!

6. "Dragon of Death" belongs to the Prince of Death Cycle, set in the world of Anarym, by the author of the popular Sword Lands Trilogy of scenarios for Realmz. Enjoy!